Smith was a strong favorite.

The critics admitted that Smith was by long odds the harder hitter, but they did not lose sight of the fact that White's defense, if it compared with his work in the Dixon fight, would be sufficient to stand Solly off for a long time. me sports argued that if Dixon put Smith out in seven rounds, and could not get better than a draw in twenty rounds with White, the latter had a chance to win.

The men had trained faithfully, for they knew that the winner would be in line to fight either Dixon or Frank Erne for the featherweight championship of the world. They re-ported in splendid trim, and weighed in all right shortly before they entered the ring.

There was one preliminary bout, six rounds at catch weights, between Jerry Reidy and Eddle Hayes, both of this city. Frank Abrahall was the referee, B. C. Williams had charge of the bell, and John Hart acted as master of ceremonies. It was 9:30 o'clock when Reidy and Hayes shook hands. Hayes did the bulk of the eading in the first three rounds, but the fight was even up on the whole, neither man doing ch damage. The decision was a draw. White and Smith were notified to prepare for their battle while Reidy and Hayes were leaving the ring, as one of the principals in the nd preliminary bout failed to appear and the managers were forced to cancel it. The stars of the show were getting ready in a room on the top floor of the building where they weighed in at 122 pounds without trouble. They were matched to fight twenty-five rounds, and when they crawled through the ropes the betting was about five to four on White. One or two sports wanted to wager two to one on the Chicago boy's chances, but there was no money in steht.

The Feather Weights Battle Neteralized by the Simulation of the Chicago and Solly Smith of Les American Should be the Shemmins Should Clab's Firese—Smith's Lively Bushes Memped by the Simulation of the Chicago and Solly Smith of Los Angeles, the well-known feather-weight puglilists, fought twenty-five rounds to a draw at the Bobemian Sporting Club. Eighty-first street and Amsterdam avenue, last night. The battle was free from brotality, although it was should contain the content and there was no let up at any stage.

White, as in his fight with Dixon last fall demonstrated that he is a wonderful defensive boxer but not a punisher in the strictest sense of the word. He has a clever left hand, but during the content lant light he did not bring his right into play more than half a dozen times.

Binth was the aggressor most of the time He depended upon his rushing tactics and heavy avelogs, but the Chicago puglilat knew how to mest such onslaughts. In the thirteenth round Smith, for the only time during the Gight, was in trouble.

After that Emith recovered his speed and mixed things with interest, It was the opinion of the speciators the decision of Referes Abrahall was just the decision of Referes Abrahall was just in view of the fact that both men were strong at the finish and could have continued their argument.

The doers of the arena were not opened until few minutes before 90 c'looks, and by that time to could not be said that either White could have hit as hard as Smith he would have won, for in point of scleene, head work, and ring tactics he was undoubtedly the superior of the Californian. Bate Selected for the Annual Meeting of the U. S. G. A.

It has been decided by the Executive Com mittee of the United States Golf Association to hold the annual meeting of the organization at Delmontco's at 8:30 o'clock on the evening of Feb. 17. Two matters to receive attention will be the election of officers for 1897, who also serve as the Executive Committee, and the selection of the courses on which the women's men's, and the open championships will be held. The Essex County Club of Manchester Mass., is an applicant for the women's cham pionship, and it is expected that the request will be granted by unanimous consent. Last year the event would have gone to Manchester only for the conditions of the Cox trophy. Secretary Tailmadge has not received any applica-tions for the men's championship. He said yesterday that it was likely none would be made until the matter came up at the meeting.

It is an open question as to where the amateur will next battle for the title. The Chicago Golf Club and the Knollwood Country Club are after the competition, according to the talk among golfers, and each has good eighteen-hole links The choice may lie between the two, but it is not a necessity that the championship should

The choice may lie between the two, but it is not a necessity that the championship should be held on an eighteen-hole course, which may send the event to Meadourbrook or elsewhere. The championships in Scotland, until the recent removal for the Edinbursh goifers from Musselburgh to Muirileld, were played every third year on a nine-hole course.

Each associate club will be represented at the U. S. G. A. meeting by two members and each allied club by one deigrate, but the latter will have no right to vote. Any revision or amendments to the Constitution to be made at the annual meeting must be announced to all the associate and allied clubs at least ten days in advance. The last session of the Executive Committee of the U. S. G. A. before the annual meeting will be held on Jan. 27, at T. A. Havemeyer's office, when a long list of clubs on the membership waiting list will be considered. The Knollwood Country Club will be elected an associate member, so that its delegates may take an active part in the proceedings at the annual conference.

H. M. Way, the Meadowbrook professional, has returned to Pau for the winter, where he has been an instructor for some years.

Willie Park, Jr.'s, American manager, Peter Biair, will sail to-day on the Majestic. He will go to Musselburgh direct and later to London, returning in about sixty days. An outcome of his visit may be the appearance of Park, accompanied by J. H. Taylor, Alex, Herd, Douglas Rolland, one of the Kirkaldies, Harry Vardon, or some player of equal fame, in this country next summer.

The Golf Committee of the Essex County Country Club has sent notices to the members stating that daily reports of the condition of the links will be posted at the club house for the information of those members destring to play, and the course will be open whenever the condition of the ground permits.

WINS A 200-BIRD MATCH.

Splendid Shooting at Fast Birds in a Gale of Wind at the Westminster Reanci Club Grounds-The Score 151 to 149-McAlpin's Gun Binabled Three Times. One of the most important pigeon shooting contests of the season was decided on the grounds of the Westminster Kennel Club at Sabylon yesterday, when George Work and George S. McAlpin, one of the Carteret Gun Club cracks, shot a 200-bird match. The latter won by a score of 151 to 142; While the score does not look very good, the birds, as they always are at this ground, were unusually fast, and with a heavy gale from the northwest behind them, they spun from the traps like so many canvasbacks. It is doubtful if the redoubtable Capt. Brewer could have scored 160 under similar conditions, particularly as only a thirty-yard boundary was used.

While McAlpin has only been shooting live birds a little over a year and is not nearly so well known as Work, his victory did not surprise the knowing ones a great deal, as many consider him to be the best shooter in the amateur ranks. He showed wonderful nerve andhad three guns break down, which was enough to rattle any one, particularly as the stocks of two of the guns did not suit him at all. Work did clever execution at times, but started off poorly. He pulled up nearly even at the end of the 100th round and then fell away again.

Both men had any number of birds die outside of the boundary, nearly all them being either lighnting drivers or right quartering driv-ers. Sepretional kills fifty yards away were frequent, and scores of birds, particularly Alpin's, who, in spite of a deadly first, is a little slow with his second barrel, were only stopped by the wire boundary fence. The contestants, who arrived at the ground on a special train, were accompanied by a number of well-known club men, including Fred Hoey, Walter W. Watrous, J. K. Palmer, Harry Edey, Benjamin Kittridge, George Magoun, John Dallett, Jr., J. S. S. Remsen, Fred G. Moore, and Justus von Lengerke. They lost little time in practice, and the match was started at 11:30 o'clock. Fred G. Moore was the referee. Fred Hoey handled Work's gun, while George Magoun looked after McAlpin's interests. Work was the first to shoot. On account of the wind no one was surprised when the bird, a fast right driver, died outside. McAlpin drew a dark left driver and killed him within a few yards of the trap. Work dropped a lightning right quarterer in the second round, only to

MILITARY ATHLETES COMPETE.

Second Night of the Tourney at the Garden

The military tournament drew another big crowd to Madison Square Garden last night. There were foot and bicycle races and exhibitions by the bleyele corps of the First Battery. N. G. N. Y., and Capt. Thorpe's Light Battery D. Fifth Artillery, U. S. A. In the fifth heat of Guard championship E. Metzner of the Eighth Regiment rode over the bank on the east corner and temporarily knocked out Private Jacobs of the First Battery.

The chariot competition lost much of its attractiveness through being decided on time, only one team going in each heat. William Du Bols showed a rare turn of speed in his heat for the 220-yard championship, but the others left in say they will clip his wings in the final. The quarter-mile handloap brought out a fine lot of runners and the final promises to be a close fit. Summaries:
